

What We Can Learn from Indigenous Approaches to Form

Writing Workshop with author Billy-Ray Belcourt

Winnipeg Public Library | Millennium Library
251 Donald St., 3rd floor, Literacy Classroom
Saturday, March 28: 2-4 p.m.

Join Billy-Ray Belcourt, best-selling author, academic and one of this year's nominees for CBC Canada Reads, for a very special writing workshop. Form is both inherited and improvised and is also an expression of a writer's style. In this workshop, attendees will look at the ways various Indigenous writers understand form, and will reflect on their own work. This 60 minute workshop will be followed with time for a meet-and-greet.

Registration required through CBC eventbrite. Visit winnipeg.ca/library and the program and events calendar for further details. This event is free.
